

Purpose Statement of Conowingo – Rising Sun Christian School

A homeschool oversight program under the supervision of “The Church of God of Prophecy” was established in 1991. The school allows parents the freedom to educate their children in the way God has appointed while also fulfilling the Maryland State legal requirements under our supervisor.

The school has generally imposed the minimal supervisory requirements of the Maryland State Law upon the families enrolled with it. Parents have been given full control and responsibility for their homeschool program. Each family chooses, purchases, and implements the materials to be used in the education of their children. The school does not require any particular curriculum or plan of study. Additionally, the school does not require its families to cover every subject, every day throughout the year. The family decides how and when materials are covered. The school does, however, require that each family keep a portfolio of samples of each student’s work to show “regular thorough instruction” in the required courses. Details regarding the portfolio and the required courses are further discussed in the Policy Statement.

It is the school's desire that all families who enroll with Conowingo – Rising Sun Christian School do so with the intention and commitment to homeschool for the long-term. The school does not see homeschooling as simply a quick fix solution to a short-term family situation. Therefore, its policies have been established with this expectation in mind.
